

ANN CENTNER

FSU email: amc18ek@my.fsu.edu

PERSONAL INFORMATION

A PhD student working under Dr. Gloria Salazar studying molecular aging of the vascular system, which is the main cause of cardiovascular disease. I am interested in studying how nutrition can be used to prevent/cure disease states.

EDUCATION

University of Georgia 2016-2018

- Masters in Food Technology - Online

University of Georgia 2010-2015

- BSFCS in Consumer Foods

WORK EXPERIENCE

University of Georgia Cooperative Extension in Blakely, GA: Fall 2015 to present

- Family & Consumer Sciences Agent
- Share training, research, and publications with the community through programming – ServSafe Manager Training, Cancer Cooking Schools, School Nutrition Conferences, Health Fairs

University of Georgia Food Acceptability and Quality Lab in Athens, Georgia: Fall 2012 to Spring 2014

- Taste panel evaluation
- Trained sensory panelist to assess taste and physical properties of almonds and other foods

UGA Ghana Study Abroad Community Service: Summer 2013

- Health screening in multiple communities
- Prepared patient meals in kitchen at the Princess Marie Louise Hospital
- Prepared special orders and patient meals in the canteen and kitchen at Ridge Hospital